Sonja G. Austrian, MSW, DSW, is Director of the Employee Assistance Program Consortium, serving the employees of five medical institutions. She is on the faculties of the Departments of Public Health and of Psychiatry at the Weill Medical College of Cornell University and is an Adjunct Professor at the Columbia University School of Social Work. Her field of practice has been health/mental health.

Nancy F. Cincotta, MSW, is the Psychosocial Director at Camp Sunshine (a retreat for families of children with life-threatening illnesses and of children who have died) in Casco, Maine. She is on the faculty of the Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York City and a doctoral candidate at the Columbia School of Social Work. Her practice focuses on children and families facing chronic and life-threatening illness and death. She is a nationally recognized author, presenter, educator, and group consultant.

Patricia J. Kolb, MSSA, MA, Ph.D., is an Associate Professor in the Sociology and Social Work Department at Lehman College of the City University of New York. Her research and publications have focused on ethnic identity, intergenerational relationships, nursing home placement processes and social services, and determinants of students’ interest in employment in gerontological social work. She was the Principal Investigator/Project Director of a gerontological curriculum enrichment project at Lehman College, funded by the John A. Hartford Foundation, and has extensive experience in social work practice.

Toni Mandelbaum, MSW, is a doctoral candidate at Bryn Mawr’s Graduate School of Social Work and Social Research. She is in private practice focusing on attachment and relational issues and life-stage transitions.