References

References

Downloaded from cupola.columbia.edu

CDC (Centers for Disease Control and Prevention). (2009). New obesity data shows Blacks have a higher rate of obesity. Atlanta: Author.

References

Downloaded from cupola.columbia.edu

References

References

Government Accountability Office. (2009, June 30). U.S. Agriculture: Retail food prices grew faster than the prices farmers received for agricultural commodities, but economic research has not established that concentration has affected these trends. (09–746R). Washington, DC: Author.

Graf, S., and Ackerman, J. (2009). A special role for lawyers in a social norm change movement: From tobacco control to childhood obesity prevention. Preventing Chronic Disease, 6, no. 3: A95–A100.

References

Houston Chronicle. (2011, February 18). Food deserts: We need more grocery stores in Houston. And we need them in the right places, p. 1.

Downloaded from cupola.columbia.edu

References

References

Mundy, A. (2002). Dispensing with the truth: The victims, the drug companies, and the dramatic story behind the battle over Fen-Phen. New York: St. Martin’s Press.

Downloaded from cupola.columbia.edu

S. Alvanides (Eds.), Obesogenic environments: Complexities, perceptions, and objective measures (pp. 11–20). Oxford, UK: Blackwell Publishing.

