

Part IV

Staying in the Sweet Zone

I made up my mind . . . that I would never try to reform man—that's much too difficult. What I would do was to try to modify the environment in such a way as to get man moving in preferred directions.

BUCKMINSTER FULLER
