
CONTENTS

Acknowledgments xi

Introduction xiii

PART ONE GENERAL ORIENTATION AND BASIC CONCEPTS OF INTERVIEWING AND COMMUNICATION

1. Defining and Characterizing the Social Work Interview 3
 - The Interview Process 3
 - Defining the Interview and Distinguishing an Interview from a Conversation 6
 - Defining the Social Work Interview 13
 - Alternatives to and Modifications of the Interview 16
2. The Interview as Communication 19
 - Defining Communication and Its Essential Elements 19
 - Metacommunication 21
 - Sequential Steps in the Process of Communication 22
 - Feedback 29
 - Understanding the Message 32
3. Listening and Silence as Interview Techniques 40
 - Hearing Versus Listening 41
 - Conditions for Good Listening 42
 - Relating Listening to the Interview 42
 - Social Listening Versus Interview Listening 44
 - The Value of Knowledge for Listening 48
 - Guidelines for Listening 49

4. Nonverbal Communication 54
 - Sources of Nonverbal Communication 56
 - Significance of Nonverbal Communication for Interviewing 70
 - Process Considerations 75
 - Nonverbal Communication Problems 76
5. Establishing a Relationship 81
 - Defining the Relationship 81
 - The Significance of a Positive Relationship 82
 - The Empirical Confirmation of Relationship's Significance 83
 - Developing a Positive Relationship 85
 - Relationships as an Interactional Event 110
 - Inner Attitudes and Expressed Behaviors 111
 - Process for a Purpose 113

PART TWO SEQUENTIAL PHASES IN THE INTERVIEW PROCESS AND ASSOCIATED TECHNIQUES

6. The Introductory Phase 117
 - The Interviewee's Background 117
 - The Interviewer's Background 118
 - Becoming a Social Work Interviewee 119
 - Selecting and Locating an Agency 120
 - The Interviewers' Preparations 125
 - Nonagency Settings 130
 - The Start of the Interview 139
7. The Problem Exploration Phase 151
 - The Meaning and Sequence of Techniques 151
 - Attending Behaviors and Minimal Encouragements 154
 - Paraphrasing 158
 - Reflection 161
 - Summarizing 168
 - Transitions 171
 - Reaching for Feelings 182
 - Discouraging Expression of Feelings 187
 - Assessment 188
8. The Developmental Phase: Problem-Solving Interventions 192
 - Clarification 192

- Interpretation 194
- Confrontation 199
- Self-Disclosure 203
- Sharing Information 208
- Giving Bad News 210
- 9. The Developmental Phase: More Problem-Solving Interventions 214
 - Support and Reassurance 214
 - Advice 216
 - Silence 220
 - Humor: An Interview Intervention 225
 - Figures of Speech 233
 - Environmental Modification 234
 - Integration of Interviewing Skills 236
- 10. The Developmental Phase: Questioning Techniques 240
 - Question Objectives 240
 - General Classifications: Open and Closed Questions 241
 - Other Dimensions 248
 - Probing Questions 249
 - Formulation and Phrasing: Some Common Errors 254
 - Additional Guidelines for Formulating Questions 263
 - Interviewers' Preparation for Asking Questions 269
- 11. Termination and Evaluation 275
 - Termination Techniques 276
 - Summary and Postinterview Conversation 280
 - Review and Evaluation 281

PART THREE SPECIAL PROBLEMS IN INTERVIEWING

- 12. Cross-Cultural Interviewing 287
 - Racial/Ethnic Minority Differences 287
 - Self-Awareness: Racial/Ethnic Minority Differences 288
 - Knowledge: Racial/Ethnic Minority Differences 291
 - Skills: Racial/Ethnic Minority Differences 294
 - Sexual Orientation Differences 297
 - Self-Awareness: Sexual Orientation Differences 298
 - Knowledge: Sexual Orientation Differences 299
 - Skills: Sexual Orientation Differences 300
 - Elderly Client Differences 302

- Self-Awareness: Elderly Client Differences 302
- Knowledge: Elderly Client Differences 304
- Skills: Elderly Client Differences 306
- 13. Problematic Interviews 310
 - Involuntary Interviewees 310
 - The Child Sexual Abuse Interview 320

PART FOUR THE ESSENCE OF THE GOOD INTERVIEW

- 14. The Competent Interviewer 337
 - Personality Attributes 338
 - Need for Knowledge 340
 - Resolving Antithetical Demands 342
 - Distinguishing More and Less Competent Interviewers 343
- L'Envoi*— 351
- Appendix: Transcribed Interview and Critique* 353
- References* 373
- Index* 395

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

OUR THANKS TO LAUREN DOCKETT, who provided editorial support at Columbia University Press for the fifth edition, and to her very capable successor, Jennifer Perillo, who was instrumental in seeing the book through to publication. We are also indebted to Jane Linzmeyer, the librarian at the University of Wisconsin–Madison School of Social Work, for her gracious assistance with references, and to Kristin Beebe, for her expertise in preparing and formatting the manuscript.